Structured Reflection on Sprint 2

Your name: Dempsey Thompson (22988643)

Your team: Group 24

What roles have you undertaken in the team thus far?

I have undertaken multiple tasks including database design, user stories, and some specific functionalities on the website. For sprint 2, I was the Project Manager, where I was responsible for keeping in contact with our client, the auditor, and our mentor to organize meetings and keep everyone up to date with how the team is tracking. I also took on some management responsibilities where I delegated tasks and broke down the project to make it easier for the team to follow and work on items.

Has the allocation of tasks been (reasonably) equitable?

Yes, the allocation of tasks has been equitable, everyone has always been assigned reasonable tasks to complete. We started off with not enough knowledge on the task which led to someone getting a harder task that probably should have been done with 2 people, however, we acknowledged this and corrected it. So, I would say that the allocations of tasks have been reasonably equitable.

What is your perception of how the team is working?

The team currently isn't working nearly as good as it could be. There are multiple people not putting in or at least that is what it seems like from the outside looking in and a member has stopped responding to anything which isn't good as more workload is dumped on to other people. But other than those things and that one group member, the team is communicating reasonably well and is present in meetings. I just think that not enough results are being produced which is concerning and making the project harder than it should be. I think it is a simple fix, just a bit more effort needs to be put in from everyone.

Given what you know now, would you have done things differently? If so, how might this influence how you work going forward?

Yes, I would have had the project structured in terms of its tasks slightly differently now that I know more about the framework we are working on. I'd also try to get some more in-person meetings and some team bonding exercises. I believe this could have made us more cohesive as a team. In summary, I'd structure tasks differently from the start and do more team bonding.
